Dear Valued Customer,

Thank you for purchasing the StudioCentral™ Library Macintosh® client Version 3.0 [SGI mktg code: SC4-SCMACCL-3.0]. The Macintosh 3.0 client is one of two native clients available for use with StudioCentral 3.0 and above. The second native client is the Windows® client Version 3.0 [SGI mktg code: SC4-SCWINCL-3.0], which is available separately.

The Macintosh 3.0 client CD installs on your server running StudioCentral 3.0 and above and enables that server to distribute unlimited native Macintosh clients. The StudioCentral client will function on any Macintosh using operating system 9 or above.

New features for the Macintosh client include:

- Access to repositories other than the default repository without reconfiguration
- Ability to assign access privileges for users and groups
- Folder synchronization
- Support for asset cut, copy, and paste
- Support for selecting multiple assets in the StudioCentral browser for applying the same operation
- Ability to assign default datamodels to be added to all assets
- New Delete and Remove options for folders and assets

Be sure to check your Release Notes for the latest information.
